THE VIRGINIA STATE CONVENTION.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE HERALD General Schofield Decides Who the Richmond Delegates Are-Hunnicut & Co-Triumphani-A Proscriptive Resolution Laid Over-The Executive Department-Carlons Debates and Personalities-The Twelfth Section Adopted.

RICHMOND, Feb. 7, 1868. To-day the long disputed question of who are the Richmond delegates was decided by a com-munication from General Schofiel,d and Messrs. doutt, Underwood and Morrissey (white), and Lewis Lindsay and Joe Cox (black), retain their seats in the Convention. Thus the feud existing in the body since the opening of the session is set at rest, the conservatives unwillingly yielding to the decree of the military, and the radicals are jubilant that their party came out of the forced sue by their opponents triumphant. The Genehowever, in his communication, gives the regfatration and vote in the particular ward upon which the issue was made, and the subsequent consus of the same, and deducts therefrom that. though frauds did exist, they were not so considerable as to cause a reasonable belief in his mind that the elections were illegal. The communication was ordered to be printed and inserted in the

An eccentric member—Mr. Parr (white), from the Eastern Shore, representing an oyster constituency—offered a resolution, which, under the rules, lies over. The preamble sets forth that the framing of a constitution for the people of Virginis in accordance with the Reconstruction acts has been retarded considerably by the election sering of certain persons for offices which will be probably created by the Convention, and provides that no member of this Convention shall be eligible to any office of trust, profit, honor or emolument for the next five years within the State.

This was quite a bombshell in the radical ranks, of which Mr. Parr is an honest member, and occasioned a good many heads to come together, and a deal of whispering that plainly indicated there was evidently some fire where so much smoke was visible. The conservatives enjoyed the resolution and laughed immoderately at the "other side."

The hour for the order of the day having arrived, the report of the Committee on the Executive Department was taken up, the twellth section being under consideration, for which the following substitute was offered by Mr. Woodson:—

being under consideration, for which the following substitute was offered by Mr. Woodson:—

A Secretary of the Commonwealth, a Treasurer and Auditor of Public Accounts shall be elected by a bint vote of the two houses of the General Assembly, and sontinue in office for the term of two years, unless

The discussion that ensued upon this article took a wide range, in which the old bone of contention that so often disturbs the equalimity of the body-slavery-was brought up. A Conservative— Fifteen years ago, perhaps," referring to the reverend's pro-slavery editorials in the Christian Banner.

In the Obristian Banner.

Mr. Hunnicutt (in a rage)—I'll give you gentlemen something more of lifteen years before I die than you care for.

Mr. Allan (radical) wished to offer a substitute, which the Chair declared out of order. He then asked leave to read it, with an intention to offer it at a proper time, to which Mr. Platte (radical) objected. Allan then wanted to embody it in his remarks, Platte still objecting, when the Chair decided for Allan.

Chair decided for Allan.

Mr. Platte, using a phrase that had its origin on the "other side," said, "I hurl back the gentle-man's insinuations"—a belligerent expression which occasioned laughter.

Voice from conservative side—"Shut the door."
(Laughter.)

Voice from conservative side—"Shut the door.
(Laughter.)
A democratic member followed, but some confusion ensued—banging of the door and cries of "Louder."
The Chair "shut the door." occasioning more laughter, and a conservative "Oh, no! no danger."
Some further debate pertinent to the subject ensued, and the previous question being called the substitute, as above, was adopted by a vote of ayes 54, noes 14.

THE SCAFFOLD.

His Confession of the Triple Crime.

(Omaha (Feb. 14) correspondence of the Cincinnati
Commercia.]

Valentine's day, set apart for the execution of Ottawa

G. Baker, convicted for the murder of Woolsey D. Higgins, opened upon us with a clear sky, the sun shining brightly, thee favoring a large audience for the tragedy. The unmitigated triple crime, new confessed by the prisoner, coupled with the great mystery beretofore attached to it, caused the arrival of several hundred persons, yesterday, from mystery beretofore attached to it, caused the arrival of several hundred persons, yesterday, from different towns in Iows and Nebraske, this morning reinforced by several thousand from Coucil Buffs and the entire farming population of the vicinity of Omaha. From seven A. M. till the time of execution a steady stream of human beings on foot, horseback, in line carriages, old lumber wagons, omnibuses and nondescript vehicles, poured through the streets, over the hills by Capitol square to the hills a quarter of a mile west, where, in a hollow surrounded by these hills, the scatfold had been erected.

votes, as a notion serviciated by these aims, the early fold had been erected.

Ottawa G. Baker, the criminal, was a young man of twenty-siz, five feet ten inches high, light complex of, promuent Roman nose, born in Richmond, Va., and was employed by Wm. R. King & Co., wholesale grocers, two years ago, as porter. While thus employed on the night of November 22, 1865, he murdered Higgins, the bookkeeper, then sleeping in the same bod, robbe the safe and set the building on fire.

For the past three mouths the prisioner was visited daily by Father Eagan, of the Cataolic Church, and the Sisters of Mercy. The prisoner became ponitent, and finally confessed his crime. He sleept soundly last sught, ate a hearty breakfast this morning, and after several hours' religious devotion was led out of jail at noon, placed in a closed carriage, surrounded by sixty firemen armed with muskeis, and driven toward the place of execution, arriving there about one o'clock P. M.

placed in a closed carrisage, surrounded by sixy firezenen armed with muskels, and driven toward the place of execution, arriving there about one o'clock P. M.
Between six and eight thousand people occupied the ground, including several bundred women, who appeared as anxious for a good view as your correspondent.
Upon arriving at the scaffold the prisoner was taken out of the carriage, the police and a special guard forming a oquate. The prisoner looked very pale; walked up the etops loading to the platform with a nervous, trembling step, and leaned upon the railing surrounding the platform. He was dressed in a black suit, his tace shaved clean, looking like a gentiel law student.
Father Eagas, his confessor, piaced the crucifix la Baker's hand and caused hifth to kneel, both praying for about five minutes. When the prisoner arcse slowly, with a downcast eye, he hade the Sheriff and his counnel good by, and thenge commenced another prayer while the cap was highested. Then the fatal trap went down, Causing hipt, to fall seven feet. A slight musbuilt quiver was the only sign of struggling life. The food was privated to the clergy after hanging sweaty minutes. The neck had been broken in the fail, but the face looked slightly discolored. Baker wrote a confession some weeks ago, but begged the confessoryhot to publish it till after his death. This clears up and hysiery. It shows him to be the party who burned the extensive block of buildings before commithistory than the planted the horrible crime in the old store,
